Roberta Bernabei : Contemporary Jewellers: Interviews with European Artists before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Contemporary Jewellers: Interviews with European Artists:

This book offers an essential reference for anyone interested in contemporary European jewellery design. Through guided conversations with the major designers of today, Roberta Bernabei reveals the creative, conceptual and technical working practices that underpin the aesthetic of each practitioner's work. In addition, the dialogues shed new light on these jewellers' inspiration and their ideas about functionality and the human body. Each interview is supported by photographs and a detailed bibliography and appendix which locates the jewellers' work in galleries, museums as well as online. Major jewellery artists present include: Giampaolo Babetto, Gijs Bakker, Otto Knzli, Ruudt Peters, Mario Pinton and Tone Vigeland, alongside members of the emergent generation: Ted Noten, Annamaria Zanella and Christoph Zellweger. This book, which opens the door to contemporary jewellery practice, will be welcomed by all students, lecturers and practitioners.

Cumulatively, the interviews build a rich picture of thinking within the field of contemporary jewellery, offering insights not only into individual approaches, but also the more general experience of high-level creative practice. CraftsAbout the AuthorRoberta Bernabei is a practitioner whose work has been exhibited at various venues in Europe, including Birmingham Museums and Art Gallery and the VA. She is also a lecturer in silversmithing and jewellery at Loughborough University.
